

Curriculum Vitae

Name: Kim Massey Heide (Mr.).
Address: Mylskerudveien 41C,
1152 Oslo, Norway.
Telephone: Work: +47 21094824
Mobile: +47 99404360
Email: kmh@ssb.no
Homepage: www.masseyheide.com

Status: Married.
Date of Birth: 31st August 1978 in Bergen, Norway.
Citizenship: British.
Languages:
Bilingual. English: Father tongue.
Norwegian: Mother tongue.
German: Competent.

Selected publications (see homepage for complete list):

A Welfare State funded by Nature and OPEC: A Guided Tour on Norway's Path from an Exceptionally Impressive to an Exceptionally Strained Fiscal Position. Statistics Norway Discussion Paper No. 464 (with Erling Holmøy, Ingeborg Foldøy Solli and Birger Strøm).

Removing policy based comparative advantage for energy intensive production: Necessary adjustment of the real exchange rate and industry structure, Statistics Norway Discussion Paper No. 462 (with Torstein Bye and Erling Holmøy).

Macroeconomic effects of proposed pension reforms in Norway. Statistics Norway Discussion Paper No. 417 (with Dennis Fredriksen, Erling Holmøy and Ingeborg Foldøy Solli).

Education:

2003 - Date Ph.D.: Economics.
The University of Oslo, Norway.
Advisor: Prof. Kjetil Storesletten

1997 - 2001 Master of Arts: Economics with Honours,
The University of Edinburgh, Scotland.
Junior Honours year spent at Binghamton University, NY, USA.

1994 - 1996 International Baccalaureate Diploma +
German Certificate,
Berg Videregående Skole, Oslo, Norway.

1992 - 1994 9 General Certificate of Secondary Education (GCSEs),
Therfield Secondary School, Surrey, England.

Awards:

2003 Research director's prize for economic analysis in memory of Simon Kuznets 2003.

1999 Guinness Diageo Prize for Marketing
1999.

Computing:

Experienced:

- Standard MS Office software.
- Modelling and data management software (SAS, Matlab, Gams, Gauss, Troll, Fame).

Work in progress:

Whom is skill-biased technical change favouring, the educated or the bright? Utilising the information that lies in the fact that education & ability are not perfectly correlated. (Ph.D. Paper 4).

Ability explains return to schooling, not just education choice. (Ph.D. Paper 3).

Does ability have a price in the labour market? Identifying the price of ability conditional on education. (Ph.D. Paper 2).

The declining skill-premium in Norway: How skill-biased technical change is compatible with a declining wage premium. (Ph.D. Paper 1).

Work Experience:

2001 - Date Research Department, Statistics Norway.
Division for Macroeconomics; Unit for Fiscal Sustainability and Unit for Public
Economics. Employed as an Economist
(Senior Executive Officer) to conduct research into, and analysis of, fiscal sustainability and population ageing.
Clients include The Ministry of Finance,
The Pension Commission and Consultants.

2004- Date Seminars and External Examiner,
Economics Dept., University of Oslo.
Examiner Macroeconomic Analysis (2008),
Seminars and Examiner Welfare and Economic Policy (2006,2007),
Examiner Masters Thesis (2004,2005).

2000 - 2001 The University of Edinburgh.
One of six students staffing a helpdesk for Undergraduate Economics courses, two hours a week.

2000 Binghamton University.
Teaching Assistant 3rd year
Macroeconomic Theory Course.
Tutorials, invigilating and marking exams.

1996 - 2000 Direkte Respons Senteret, a Telia Group
Company. Technical Internet Support.
Full time seven months before studies,
thereafter in all university holidays.